

We tell our daughters they can accomplish anything. We want them to follow in our footsteps to college and off to an even brighter future.

But many girls in Atlanta are caught in a cycle of poverty, born to teenage mothers who didn't finish high school and can't make ends meet. Without help, they may also follow in their mothers' footsteps.

CONSIDER THIS...
TODAY IN GEORGIA, STUDIES SHOW

44 teenage girls will become mothers

43% of female-headed households live in poverty

3RD lowest high school graduation rate in the country

IN SHORT, THE ODDS ARE AGAINST ANY GIRL BORN INTO POVERTY HERE. BUT...

You Can Open the Door to a Great Future.

At Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta, we give girls the vision and motivation to break the cycle of poverty. That's why our doors open to a place where nearly 6,000 girls annually are inspired, encouraged and exposed to a new world of possibilities.
